PREMIUM MEDIA AIR CLEANERS

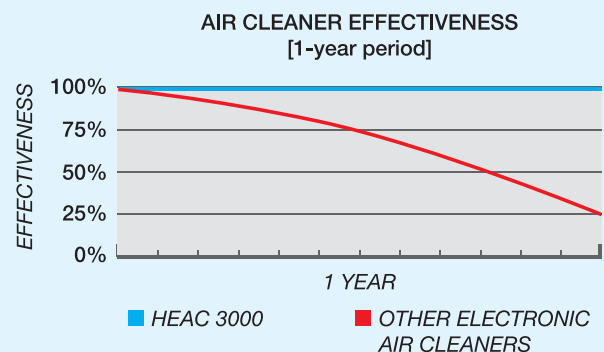

Everyone knows that outdoor air is filled with pollutants. But did you know that that the air in your home may be just as bad? In fact, the EPA ranks indoor air quality as a top-five environmental concern. The reason: dust, pollen, mold, bacteria, pet dander —these particles can be found in any home, no matter how careful you are. Remove these particles and you remove the common triggers for allergies, asthma attacks, headaches and other health worries. Fortunately, there's an uncomplicated way to do just that.

The Good News: Home Air Cleaners

An Affinity Home Air Cleaner is an easy way to improve indoor quality. These cleaners go far beyond standard filters to keep your home environment clear all year long. Unlike a portable room air cleaner, these units are part of your existing heating and cooling system so they clean the air throughout your entire home, all while remaining out of sight and operating incredibly quietly. They can even deliver 24-hour cleaning when you need it. This is a difference you can see, since you'll notice less dust around the house, and it's a difference your whole family can feel. Day after day. Each unit is simple to install, simple to maintain and, because it keeps dust and dirt out of vital equipment, your heating and cooling system performs at peak efficiency, which can help reduce maintenance and energy costs.

A single premium air cleaner will clean every room in your home over four times every hour.
